Satish Chandra Memorial School

Case study

One day Florence was out riding on her pony in the company of a parson of a nearby church. As they rode across the country she saw an old shepherd sitting by the roadsidewith his sheep-dog, Cap beside him. The shepherd was very fond of his dog and was bitterly complaining that it had met with an accident. Its leg was broken and it looked as though poor Cap could have to be destroyed. When she heard this, Florence jumped down from her pony, and together with the parson, examined the dog's broken leg. They made splints for it and bandaged it up. And soon the dog was running about again as well as ever. The shepherd was very grateful to Florence, and when she became the most famous nurse in the world , she used to tell people that her first patient was a dog.

A. Answer the following:
     i.   Why was the shepherd grateful to Florence?
     ii.   What happened with the shepherd?
     iii.   Name the first patient of Florence.
     iv.   How did Florence and the parson nurse the broken leg of the dog?
     v.   Why did the shepherd complain about the dog?