

The Treasure Within

1. A constant struggle in academic areas may indicate:

- A) Lack of effort
- B) Potential mismatch between learning style and system
- C) Absence of discipline
- D) Disinterest in all forms of education

2. Frequent involvement in physical activities and jokes in early years may reflect:

- A) Poor moral values
- B) Disregard for adults
- C) Strong creative instincts
- D) Total rejection of routine

3. A sudden change in behaviour after a personal talk suggests:

- A) Fear of consequences
- B) Impact of emotional connection
- C) Desire to impress others
- D) Plan to gain reward

4. A person recalling diagrams as images rather than words indicates:

- A) Poor attention
- B) Weak comprehension
- C) Preference for pictorial input
- D) Lack of reading practice

5. A learner shifting from poor academic scores to excellence in a practical field reflects:

- A) Luck
- B) Systematic error
- C) Rejection of social norms
- D) Discovery of suitable expression

6. A chance visit to a workplace resulting in career clarity implies:

- A) Randomness leads to success
- B) Observational power can spark vision
- C) Workspaces always motivate
- D) Curiosity fades with time

7. A student designing weapons and forts for fun likely demonstrates:

- A) Violent tendencies
- B) Rebellious nature
- C) Strategic imagination
- D) Lack of purpose

8. Preferring nature's movement over classroom explanations may indicate:

- A) Inability to concentrate
- B) Deep connection to real-world processes
- C) Disrespect for order
- D) Love for disobedience

9. A person identifying others' preferences through subtle cues shows:

- A) Social awkwardness
- B) Trained observation
- C) Need for approval
- D) Emotional detachment

10. Turning visual-spatial ability into professional excellence shows:

- A) Chance success
- B) Emotional dependency
- C) Applied intelligence
- D) Passive learning

11. Frame one Short Answer Type Question without using any Wh – word.

12. Compare the outcomes of passion-driven learning with result-oriented education systems, using the character's journey as a reference.