

Walls tells story

Look at the picture given below and answer the following questions:

How can the materials used in old walls give us clues about the past?

Answer:

The walls of old buildings can tell us about the history, architecture, culture, weapons, paintings, lifestyle of people, rulers, and important events of the past.

Name some things you can find inside a fort.

Ans by own

How were old buildings constructed without machines?

How did the design of bastions evolve over time to adapt to advancements in warfare?

Answer:

Bastions are projecting parts of the fort wall, usually round or square, where soldiers stood guard. They were used to spot enemies from a distance and for firing weapons in different directions.