

1. Write a description of a busy market or a busy shop.

Last Saturday, I visited a busy market near my home, and it was full of life and activity. The market was situated along a crowded high street, with shops and colourful stalls lining both sides of the road. The narrow lanes were packed with people carrying shopping bags and moving from one shop to another. I could hear shopkeepers calling out to customers, people bargaining over prices, children laughing and vehicle horns sounding in the distance. The bright colours of fruits, vegetables, clothes and toys caught my attention everywhere I looked. The delicious smell of freshly prepared snacks mixed with the fragrance of flowers and spices. People moved quickly through the crowded lanes, while shopkeepers eagerly displayed their goods. Despite the noise and confusion, the market had a cheerful and energetic atmosphere. It was a tiring but enjoyable experience, and I realised that the lively crowd and colourful surroundings made the market truly fascinating.

2. “Self-portrait.” Describe yourself. In your description, you should try to capture what makes you unique.

I would describe myself as a cheerful, curious and kind-hearted person who enjoys learning new things. I have a friendly nature and feel happy when I am able to help others. I enjoy reading books, listening to music and spending time with my family and friends. I am usually calm and patient, and I try to listen carefully before giving my opinion. My curiosity often makes me ask questions and explore things that interest me. I also try to face challenges with courage and learn from my mistakes. What makes me unique is the way I look at ordinary things with curiosity and imagination. I believe that every person has special qualities, and I am proud of being myself. I may not be perfect, but I keep trying to become a better and more confident person every day.
